Dies Boomed For Second Place On Democratic Slate

TEXAN FAVERED AS NOMINEE TO RUN WITH F. D.

Garner Being Discarded By New Dealers As Choice At Chicago

SECRETARY HULL LIKED Chief Of Un-American Probe In Nation Given Support; Geography Suitable

WASHINGTON, July 6—While the Garner for President boom was being revived, a band wagon for another Texan—Rep. Martin Dies—started rolling today in the hope that the Democratic National Convention would nominate him for the vice presidency on a third term ticket with President Roosevelt.

These developments were the highlights of the political situation in Washington, although New Dealers and veteran Democrats in congress assert that it is a foregone conclusion that the 1940 Democratic ticket will be Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

Asked if he thought Mr. Roosevelt would run for a third term, Sen. Ashurst (D) Ariz., declared: "I have always taken that for granted."

This is the general attitude on Capitol Hill, and a mad scramble for the vice presidency is under way. A boom for Dies for the vice presidency was started in Texas, and has gained considerable support in congressional circles. This was predicated on the supposition that President Roosevelt would be nominated on the first ballot, leaving Vice President Garner out in the cold as far as the presidency is concerned.

Geography Suitable

Dies, who heads the committee investigating un-American activities, would be geographically eligible, his supporters insist. It was generally conceded that the candidate for the vice presidency, if Roosevelt is renominated, must come from the South or a far western state.

It was not known whether Dies, who is now at his home in Orange, Tex., would consent to open headquarters at Chicago to further his boom for second place on the ticket. His backers, however, have been seeking support for him in very part of the country.

The boom for Garner for the presidency was being built on a report that Garner would not run. This report admittedly made Garnerites angry. In denying the report they made a bid for support from anti-third term members of the party. They also sought the aid of Democrats now threatening to join a third party. This was implied by the statement that "no Democrat will leave the party if Garner is the nominee."

THE French navy, fourth largest in the world, has ceased to exist as a fighting unit following seizure of many ships by the British navy, destruction of some in a sea battle with British warships off Oran, Algeria, and peaceful surrender of many more in northern waters. The French battleship Provence is reported to have been burned in the battle of Oran (map above shows site of the fight) and the French battle cruiser Dunkerque is reported to have escaped to Toulon, France, but in such a disabled condition as to render it useless for the remainder of the war. The newly-completed French battleship Richelieu was reported surrendered to the British voluntarily by its crew. The French submarine Surcouf, the world's largest submersible, is also reported in British hands.

WOMAN MENACED IN BOMB PROBE AT FAIRGROUNDS

LONDON, July 6—Thousands of French sailors at Portsmouth have sworn allegiance to Great Britain, the London Daily Express reported from Portsmouth today.

The same paper, in a dispatch from Alexandria, said the large French naval force there, including a battleship, cruisers and destroyers, was continuing cooperation with British naval units despite the Anglo-French naval battle off Oran.

There is no air crisis at Alexandria, said the Express and no question of the French trying to scuttle their ships or break away from the British.

The "shock" of the Oran battle lasted only a few hours, the Express said, and there are no signs of hostilities at Alexandria now.

BERLIN REPORTS ANOTHER FRENCH SHIP DESTROYED

BERLIN, July 6—A new naval battle between French and British warships off Crete in the Mediterranean was reported today by the official German news agency DNB.

In a dispatch from Geneva reports from Vichy, France, the German agency said two British cruisers battled and sank the French cruiser Frondeur off the island of Crete.

DNB said the "shipwrecked" French sailors were rescued by a Greek steamer three days later.

(Editor's Note: Although DNB described the Frondeur as a cruiser, Jane's Fighting Ships lists her as a 1,750-ton destroyer, built in 1929 and carrying a normal complement of 142 men.)

According to the dispatch, the French vessel was about to proceed to a French harbor in accordance with the Franco-German armistice terms when she was halted by the British cruisers, engaged and sunk after a two-hour battle.

DNB charged that the British warships steamed off without attempting to rescue the Frondeur's crew.

Managers of the Ashville dance, where the argument was reported to have started, said Saturday that none of the trouble was on the dance floor, that feature of the Fourth of July celebration having ended.

GIRL FORFEITS LEGACY BY MARRYING CONTRARY TO WISHES OF FATHER

NEARLY, N. J., July 6—Having snapped their fingers at a $25,000 legacy, George McMillan, 25 year old employee of the Food Stamp Administration in Washington, D. C. and his bride-of-a-day were on an economical honeymoon today.

The bride, the former Miss Virginia Cocalis, 24, a writer employed by the Farm Security Administration in Washington, forfeited the $25,000 when she failed to marry, as her father's will specified, a man born in the Greek Orthodox faith.

However, Virginia's marriage yesterday was approved by all members of her family and Virginia's mother intimated that the bride would not lose ultimately by her decision to marry the man of her choice.

NEW YORK, July 6—Mrs. Marjorie Rosser, British born telephone operator at the British pavilion at the World's Fair, was threatened with death today as police summoned every resource into the hunt for the perpetrators of the fair's Fourth of July bomb outrage.

Mrs. Rosser, who was one of those who narrowly escaped death when the bomb was discovered in the British pavilion and then moved outside where it exploded, killing two police detectives, was called on the phone at 1:30 last night at her Jackson Heights home.

Her husband picked up the receiver and without preliminary a gruff voice warned: "I am going to kill you."

U. S. READY FOR ACTION IF NAZIS MOVE TO WEST

Washington Will Seize Any French, British Lands Eyed By Germany

CONSULS GIVEN WARNING

Fear Expressed That Fight May Break Out In Area Around Martinique

WASHINGTON, July 6—The United States Government is prepared, after consultation with other American nations, to take temporary possession of any British or French colonies in the Western World which Germany may try to seize, it was learned today from a high official source.

Further, if the exigencies of the situation should demand it, this country might have to act unilaterally in order to stave off a sudden occupation of American territory, the same source said. Every effort would be made, however, to consult with the other powers of the Western Hemisphere before acting.

If time for consultation is allowed, it was said, possession might be taken in the name of the Pan-American Union rather than the United States as a nation. And possession would last only so long as the original European "mother country" or the American territory was unable to direct its destinies.

This statement of policy was made shortly after Germany had declared "untenable" Secretary of State Hull's declaration that the United States would not acquiesce in the transfer of American power to another.

Martinique Area Watched

Meanwhile, the possibility of a naval battle between Great Britain and France in American waters is being carefully watched by Washington. A French aircraft carrier and a flotilla of submarines were reported to be at the West Indian island of Martinique, waiting for a chance to dodge a British destroyer blockade that awaited them off-shore.

The British were trying to prevent the transfer of gold and American war planes to France, where

Attack On London Awaiting Word of Chief, Say War Lords; Idol Of Germany Classed With Caesar And Other Conquerors

BERLIN, July 6—To a triumphant reception rivalling that of a Caesar, Chancellor Hitler returned to Berlin this afternoon to be hailed by miles-long throngs of cheering Germans as "victorious leader of Norway, Holland, Belgium and France."

Millions of Germans, given half the day off from their work in honor of the occasion, jammed the streets leading from Anhalter Station to the chancellery.

Flags, banners, flowers and wreaths festooned the entire route, and as bands played and the multitude cheered itself hoarse, Hitler rode in state through the packed streets, acknowledging the acclaim of his people with the traditional Nazi salute as he stood in the tonneau of his car.

As the führer stepped from his special train at 3 p. m. (8 a. m. Circleville time) he was greeted first by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering. Thereafter General Brauchitsch, Admiral Raeder, Rudolf Hess, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels and other cabinet members stepped forward to welcome their leader.

Finally, a line of Nazi governors and gauleiters stepped up to tender their homage.

In front of the station an honor guard of army, navy and air force units was drawn up for the Führer's inspection. As he walked before the drawn up ranks of his fighting men, thunderous cheers echoed from the crowd jamming the square before the depot.

Flowers Cover Route

Every inch of the route from the station to the chancellery was a veritable blanket of flowers over which Hitler's car drove. The blooms had been thrown into the street before the Führer's car appeared, inasmuch as it is forbidden to throw bouquets at Hitler or his machine.

STOCKHOLM—King Haakon of Norway, now in London, has rejected a German-dictated Norwegian request that he abdicate, it was reported in Stockholm today. Self-exiled Premier Johann Nygaardsvold, however, was said to have declared his willingness to return.

NEW YORK—An official British radio broadcast picked up in New York by NBC said today that the Communist Party in Australia and the Communist party organ have been legalized by government decree.

TOKYO—The Japan Advertiser published an editorial today supporting the British action against French fleet units off Oran, Algeria.

BERLIN—A hint that French warplanes were responsible for yesterday's bombing attacks against the British Mediterranean stronghold of Gibraltar was circulated by the official German news agency DNB today.

HONG KONG—Acting on instructions of the State Department in Washington, the United States consul general in Hong Kong today advised all Americans to evacuate this menaced British crown colony as soon as possible. Arrangements were made to use two American liners arriving in Hong Kong next week.

CINCINNATI, July 6—Felled by a police bullet after a early morning chase through Hyde Park, 18-year old William Renzenkuper, Cincinnati high school student was in critical condition today, according to General Hospital attachés.

Earlier reports had circulated that Hitler would address his people from the balcony, but he contented himself merely with an acknowledgement of their plaudits.

Today's triumphant return followed nearly two months at the fighting front. His arrival in Berlin, German authorities declared, closed the Western Front phase of the European war. Likewise, it "clears the deck" for direct action against England.

MAN SHOT AFTER CHASE SERIOUS, HOSPITAL SAYS

Attaches at Mercy Hospital, Columbus, said Saturday that the condition of Harland J. Ballard, 27, shot in Ashville Thursday at midnight, was "not good."

Ballard was shot twice in the abdomen by bullets fired by a Sheriff Robert Walden and Deputy Marshal Cecil Scott.

The Columbus man was wounded after he drew a revolver following an argument with his wife. He started to run and was shot after he had fired at the officials. One of the bullets from his revolver knocked Scott's hat off his head.

Managers of the Ashville dance, where the argument was reported to have started, said Saturday that none of the trouble was on the dance floor, that feature of the Fourth of July celebration having ended.

Nazis Raid Isles Again; British Await Invasion

LONDON, July 6—For the third time in 24 hours, German planes appeared over southwestern England today, but evidently confined their activities to reconnaissance as no bombs were dropped.

This latest visitation followed renewed German aerial attacks on Britain during the night which failed, according to official statements, to cause any serious damage.

Later it was stated authoritatively that British bombers again flew over Germany yesterday and last night, attacking airfields, patrol boats, naval bases and land targets.

Three British bombers are missing, it was stated.

With the hour of Germany's expected major assault seemingly approaching, Britain's terrific drive to complete defense work throughout the nation continued non-stop over the week end.

Thousands of civilians gave up their days off to assist the military services.

Tank traps, airplane traps, trenches, barriers, pill boxes and defenses of all kinds were being constructed as fast as human beings are able to work.

Already there was hardly a single road of any size or importance in any region of Britain without its network of elaborate defenses. The entire country, par-

ROMANIAN SHIPS FLEE AS SOVIET FLEET MOVES

BUDAPEST, July 6—Movements of the Soviet Russian naval fleet have compelled the Romanian fleet to depart from the Romanian port of Constanza, it was reported in Budapest today.

The drive to the chancellery was an uninterrupted bedlam of cheering which drowned out the military bands' renditions of Deutschland Uber Alles and the Horst Wessel Lied.

The drive to the chancellery was an uninterrupted bedlam of cheering which drowned out the military bands' renditions of Deutschland Uber Alles and the Horst Wessel Lied.

As the chancellor's car swung into Wilhelmplatz before the chancellery, the throng burst out in a bedlam of cheering and singing, which resolved itself into the cry:

"We want to see our Fuehrer."

Four minutes after Hitler's arrival at the chancellery the doors of the balcony slowly opened and the Fuehrer stepped out and stood smiling, for an instant behind the swastika-decked balustrade.

Three Beside Him

After a moment in which the multitude loosed a thunderous cheer, Hitler beckoned to his generals, and from within the chancellery Goering, Brauchitsch and Keitel stepped forward and stood beside their Fuehrer.

So great was the enthusiasm in the Wilhelmplatz that at this juncture the crowd broke through the lines of storm troopers and surged close to the chancellery steps for a closer view of their hero.

Still smiling, Hitler gave a final salute to the people and stepped back into the chancellery.

Ten more Circleville and Pickaway County youths were taken to Yellow Springs, O., Saturday, after being accepted for Civilian Conservation Corps enrollment at Fort Hayes, Columbus. The latest enrollment includes Thomas M. Booth, Circleville Route 2; George T. Carrell, 147 East Mill Street; Orrin Diltz, 385 Walnut Street; Chester England, 327 South Scioto Street; Norlus LeMaster, Circleville Route 2; Chester McCain, Ashville; Max Sark, Ashville Route 1; Randolph Shaefner, Circleville Route 3, and Sam Smith, Circleville Route 3.

and so far in 1940, 56 have been enrolled.

CCC enrollment restrictions have been altered considerably in the last few months. When the program was started only boys from families on relief were accepted. Now any unemployed boy whom the relief office determines is deserving may enroll.

The youths in the CCC are given $8 each month as spending money and $22 is sent to their parents. In cases where parents want the youths to have the benefit of all the money, the U. S. Treasury will keep the $22 monthly check on deposit until the enrollee is through with his period of enrollment. All the money above the $8 monthly will be given to him on his discharge.

Spirit Of Reds, Brooklyn Hint Great Contest

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
If it's the "do or die" spirit that counts, then you can bet your Sunday straw topper today that the National League pennant derby is going to be one of the greatest neck-and-neck struggles since the days of old Abner Doubleday himself.

Two teams—the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds—continued as the pacemakers, each fighting until the very last out before conceding defeat. Yesterday both clubs yanked games from the fire just when it seemed as if the enemy had victories registered in the record books.

It took the daring Dodgers 20 innings before they were able to brush off the pesky Bees, 6 to 2. The game lasted five hours and 18 minutes and from the ninth inning on was played under protest.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Bees entered the protest when Umpire Dick Campbell ruled "no-pitch" on a ball that Dolph Camilli hit for a fly-out. Stengel and his coach, George Kelly, were banished because of their lengthy dispute.

Medwick Hit Again

Outfielder Joe Medwick was hit by a pitched ball again, this time on the right wrist by Joe Sullivan in the fifteenth frame. He left the game but later it was announced he probably would play today.

The Reds roared in the ninth inning, scoring three runs, to trip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 4. Cincinnati's pitching again was a big factor, with Jim Turner and Joe Beegs serving up but six safeties.

In hopes of smoking the Duracor men out of the top spot, Manager Bill McKechnie will send Paul Derringer to the hill against the Cubs today. Derringer will be making his fourth straight try for victory number ten.

Morris Arnowich was the fair-haired boy in Rhinebeck yesterday as he lined a single to center in the last of the ninth to drive home Frank McCormick with the winning tally. The champs had entered the closing frame trailing by two runs but hits by Lonnie Frey, McCormick, Craft and Arnowich sent Danny McFayden scurrying to the showers and the winning run across the plate with relief hurler Mace Brown on the mound.

Ival Goodman's fifth inning homer with Frey on base accounted for the Reds' other two runs.

Three home runs, good for nine tallies, enabled the Chicago Cubs to hang a neat 11 to 5 lacing on the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants tapered off from the double Independence Day setback by the Dodgers by plastering the Philadelphia Phillies, 15 to 2.

The Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to four straight games by clubbing out a 10 to 8 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Luke Appelton, who did a creditable relief job, earned his third victory of the year.

Babich Over Yanks

In a night game, Johnny Babich out-pitched three New York Yankee hurlers as the Philadelphia Athletics nabbed a 6 to 3 decision.

Spirit Of Reds, Brooklyn Hint Great Contest

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

If it's the "do or die" spirit that counts, then you can bet your Sunday straw topper today that the National League pennant derby is going to be one of the greatest neck-and-neck struggles since the days of old Abner Doubleday himself.

Two teams—the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds—continued as the pacemakers, each fighting until the very last out before conceding defeat. Yesterday both clubs yanked games from the fire just when it seemed as if the enemy had victories registered in the record books.

It took the daring Dodgers 20 innings before they were able to brush off the pesky Bees, 6 to 2. The game lasted five hours and 19 minutes and from the ninth inning on was played under protest.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Bees entered the protest when Umpire Dick Campbell ruled "no-pitch" on ball that Dolph Camilli hit for a fly-out. Stengel and his coach, George Kelly, were banished because of their lengthy dispute.

Medwick Hit Again

Outfielder Joe Medwick was hit by a pitched ball again, this time on the right wrist by Joe Sullivan in the fifteenth frame. He left the game but later it was announced he probably would play today.

The Reds rioted in the ninth inning, scoring three runs, to trip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 4. Cincinnati's pitching again was a big factor, with Jim Turner and Joe Beegs serving up but six safeties.

In hopes of smoking the Durocher men out of the top spot, Manager Bill McKechnie will send Paul Derringer to the hill against the Cubs today. Derringer will be making his fourth straight try for victory number ten.

Morris Arnowich was the fair-haired boy in Rhinebeck yesterday as he lined a single to center in the last of the ninth to drive home Frank McCormick with the winning tally. The champs had entered the closing frame trailing by two runs but hit by Lonnie Frey, McCormick, Craft and Arnowich sent Danny McFayden scurrying to the showers and the winning run across the plate with relief hurler Mace Brown on the mound.

Ival Goodman's fifth inning homer with Frey on base accounted for the Reds' other two runs.

Three home runs, good for nine tallies, enabled the Chicago Cubs to hang a neat 11 to 5 lacing on the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants tapered off from the double Independence Day setback by the Dodgers by plastering the Philadelphia Phillies, 15 to 2.

The Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to four straight games by clubbing out a 10 to 8 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Luke Appleton, who did a creditable relief job, earned his third victory of the year.

Babich Over Yanks

In a night game, Johnny Babich out-pitched three New York Yankee hurlers as the Philadelphia Athletics nabbed a 6 to 3 decision,

Evangelical Young Folk Leave Sunday To Attend Church's Summer Assembly

Linwood Park On Lake Erie To Be Scene Of Convention

Young people from the Evangelical Church, under the leadership of their pastor, the Rev. W. D. Ramsey and Mrs. Ramsey, will leave Sunday afternoon for a week at the Summer Assembly of the Evangelical Church held at Linwood Park, Vermilion, July 7 to 14.

Leading speakers at the convention will include the Bishop C. H. Stauffacher of Kansas City, Dr. Paul Rees of Minneapolis, Dr. and Mrs. Ulmer of China and the Rev. A. E. Lehman, superintendent of the Kentucky Mountain Mission.

The group will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Marl Delong and their sons Dale and Marion, Arthur and Francis Kibler, Richard Conrad, Edward Bost, Margaret Davis, Robert Dean, Marybelle and Audrey Weaver, Norma June Coffland, Wanda Turner, Mary Hunter, Patty Hosler and Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey.

A group from the Yellowbud Evangelical Church consisting of Mrs. Robert Immell, Miss Louise Dehus, Alice and Betty Davis and Matilda Cline will also accompany them.

Church Briefs

The Rev. Irvin Lane will preach at the worship service of the Pilgrim Holiness Church. The service will begin at 10:30. A prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The session of the Presbyterian Church will meet briefly at 10 a.m. Sunday morning at the church. The regular monthly meeting of the session will be held at the close of the worship service. The trustees will meet Tuesday evening in the session room of the church.

"Job, God's Servant" will be the subject of the Sunday school lesson at the First Methodist Church. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. James P. Moffitt, will sing the anthem "The Good Shepherd" by Ira B. Wilson, and the Rev. C. F. Bowman will preach on the subject "The Mission of Jonah."

Church school at the St. Philip's Episcopal Church has been discontinued until September.

There will be no Sunday evening services July 7 or 14 at the Evangelical Church because of the absence of the pastor. "Limitations of God" will be the theme of the sermon Sunday morning.

Tempted to Doubt God's Goodness ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Job 1, 2.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Then Satan afflicted Job with boils, but even in his misery he would not curse him to his affliction.

(GOLDEN TEXT—Job 1:22)

his sons and daughters were feasting a great wind came from the wilderness, blew down the house, and killed them all, excepting the one who came to him.

"Then Job arose, and rent his mantle, and shaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worshipped, saying: Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Satan then asked that the Lord put forth His hand and afflict Job with a loathsome disease and see what he would say. The Lord told Satan he must spare Job's life, but that He put him in Satan's hands and he could so afflict him, to test him further.

When boils appeared on Job's body, from his head to his feet, his wife said to him: "Dost thou still retain thine integrity? Curse God, and die." But Job told her she was speaking foolishly. "What?" said he, "shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?"

"In all this did Job sin with his lips," the account says.

At the end of this chapter (Job 2), three friends came to find and comfort him, but they did, they wept, rent their mantles, put dust on their heads and sat down with him on the ground for seven days and seven nights.

We shall read about his further trials and how he bore them and what he answered his friends about his afflictions in the next lesson.

Job and his friends

Jonah—the Outreach of God's Love

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 7 is Job 1 and 2, the Golden Text being Job. 1:22, "In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly.")

THE STORY of Job, which we have for today's lesson, is one of the most dramatic and intensely interesting in the Bible. Here again we take up the problem of disaster which hits at the good as well as the evil.

There are people who think there never was a person in Old Testament times named Job. There is, however, much evidence to show there was, and his courage and faith under unspeakable affliction is a lesson for all of us old and young, rich or poor.

The story of Job's life stars:

"There was a man in the land of

Uz (whose location cannot be definitely determined at the present time), whose name was Job;

and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eschewed evil."

Then the account tells of his seven sons and three daughters and his great riches in the form of sheep, oxen, female asses and camels. When his sons held feasts in their homes, and invited their sisters to these merrymakings, Job sent and sanctioned them and rose up early and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all: for Job said, It may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts. Thus did Job continually."

Now the story changes to the abode of God—Heaven. On a day when the Sons of God (the angels) came to present themselves to the Lord, Satan (whom you remember was once an angel fallen because of his pride) came too, and the Lord asked him: "Whence comest thou?" And Satan answered, "From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it."

Then the Lord asked Satan if he had noticed His servant Job, "of whom there is none like him in earth, a perfect and upright man, one that feareth God and escheweth evil?" Satan replied that he had, and suggested that the reason Job was so good was that he had everything the heart of man could ask; and furthermore gave it as his (Satan's) opinion, that if Job should lose his possessions he would not be such a good man, but would curse God to His face.

So to test Job and see if his worship was merely face devotion, the Lord gave Satan power to take away all that Job had. One day when Job's sons and daughters were feasting at the home of one of the son's a messenger came to Job, telling him that the Sabeans had come upon his own plowing with the asses feeding beside them, and had taken them all away, killing all of his servants but the one who escaped to tell him the dreadful news.

Then another messenger came and announced that fire had fallen from heaven on all his sheep and the servants that tended them, and that only he had escaped to tell him.

Yet another messenger came to poor Job, telling him that the Chaldeans had taken away his camels and killed all the servants with them. And most dreadful of all, another came, saying that as he had escaped to tell him the dreadful news.

Then another messenger came to poor Job, telling him that the Chaldeans had taken away his camels and killed all the servants with them. And most dreadful of all, another came, saying that as

EAGLES AND DRAGONS

WHAT is wrong with the world today? why this outbreak of war, hate, confusion, abandonment of the old ways and landmarks, loss of the old restraints, until we seem to be wailing in a new waste of lawlessness? Here is an effort to explain.

It looks like chaos, but there must be some basic reason for it. The human race cannot have gone unaccountably mad all at once. We have had wars and revolutions before, though more limited in scope and procedure. If we are plunged into a universal war or succession of wars, there must be some basic or universal fact that would explain it. Is the cause chiefly material or mental?

It is generally accepted that human nature doesn't change much, or rapidly. Men are probably about the same as they were before, individually, even when they break into unprecedented violence collectively. If they are acting abnormally, it must be because some other factors have changed.

The factors are doubtless to some extent economic; men by millions, in many countries, have found it hard to make a living. But that has nearly always been true. The factors are to a large extent political, too; yet there have always been ambitious and ruthless men in public life, eager to avenge real or fancied wrongs. Why so great an upheaval now?

Perhaps we shall find a material key to this world war in what we have heretofore regarded as an adulterated blessing—in our modern means of travel and communication, particularly the motor car and airplane. Both were used in the last war, but on a small scale. Now rather suddenly the airplane and the armored tank have become the chief weapons of warfare, far more powerful and destructive than any others ever devised. And the same kind of men, for the same revengeful or ambitious purposes that always animate strong leaders, have cleverly seized these weapons and used them suddenly and powerfully before their victims—mostly placid democracies—could get a good start in the new weapons and technique of warfare.

It was probably fear of some such development which led American statesmen a few years ago to propose the universal outlawing of military planes, but it never occurred to them that armored tanks would become no less a peril to peace.

Our modern forms of instantaneous communications, particularly radio, which was lacking in the last war, have kept pace with these air and land wagons, providing a "perfect set-up" for conquest by war-makers who "jump the gun" as Hitler and his fellow-dictators have done. So have new manufacturing processes.

COMPULSORY TRAINING SHELVED

WASHINGTON—Nothing is being said about it, but that compulsory training program discussed by the President is shelved for the time being.

Reason for the postponement is inability of the inner master minds to get together on a plan. Army heads had certain ideas and civilian officials had others. None was very definite, and after several efforts to work out something, all agreed to lay the matter aside.

That was the reason why Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman launched his vocational training program, under which 150,000 mechanics of various kinds will be trained with funds from the WPA and the Office of Education. This makeshift plan will be continued until it is decided whether to proceed with a large-scale compulsory program.

And that will not come until Roosevelt advisers agree on a formula which will be acceptable to the country.

RADIO SPIES

Five hundred men are being added to the staff of the Federal Communications Commission to do a job of wartime counter-espionage of a type never done before in our entire history.

For this war presents a problem that was not known in World War I. Widespread use of radio makes possible the transmission of spy messages or interference with U. S. government messages by spies.

To prevent this, the FCC intends to police the ether waves. Using an allotment of $1,600,000 from the defense appropriation, they will expand the field force sufficiently to monitor radio messages 24 hours a day in all parts of the country.

If it is suspected that an unlicensed operator is sending messages from a certain section, the monitors move in with mobile equipment and start their detection.

Through the triangulation method, they pick up the beam of the pirate radio, and track it to the house of origin. If it is a large building—office building or apartment house—they prowl around with a detection apparatus strapped to the waist, which, like a witch's crooked stick, gives the signal when the vital spot is reached.

Meantime, the FCC requires that persons licensed for radio transmission give proof of American citizenship. Also it forbids amateurs to broadcast outside the U. S., and warns all operators to stop useless chatter by wireless.

NOTE—There are 55,000 licensed radio amateurs in the United States.

ANNENBERG'S INCOME TAX

Inside fact regarding the income tax conviction of Philadelphia publisher Moe Annenberg is that the Treasury had 45 agents working three and a half years on the case. At times there were even 80 agents detailed to this one job.

In the end, they got $8,000,000 refunded to the Government—far in excess of the agents' salaries—while Annenberg got a three-year jail sentence.

One factor, hitherto undisclosed, which helped to break the case for the Government was the discovery of a mysterious woman on Annenberg's payroll, who here

"Back upstairs. I'm not getting you into this."

"I'll go to my club after I tell the lady a few truths. Sometimes I think I'd like the peace of the war in China."

"Let me know how you come out, won't you?" Linda asked. "Drop by tomorrow."

Caroline stirred and opened her eyes as Linda let Rob out the door.

Even yet Linda had no fear, there in the April night on the balcony with the monastery dreaming just below, and the towers of the city, ghosted now, and silent, hemming in the garden. She said:

"Her voice is beautiful, although it said such spiteful things. She might have been giving an impersonation, playing a role. Who is she?"

"Good girl, Linda! You got it. She's Mina Nevins, the actress, and maybe it is a role."

But her name spelled magic anywhere, even on a balcony still ringing with her insults.

"I have to dash in a second, Linda, but I owe you an explanation. It sounds fishy, I know, but it's the truth. I had an uncle who died a long time ago. I guess I inherited the old boy's chin or nose."

Caroline stirred and opened her eyes as Linda let Rob out the door. "I thought I saw a trousered person," she said.

"Good girl, Linda! You got it. She's Mina Nevins," Linda answered, and explained briefly. "It's sort of silly nothing that ever can touch you."

She was to remember those words such a little while later. Nothing that ever can touch you! But life moved in widening ripples and one circle opened to enclose another as the chain went on.

At the moment Linda went to bed, forgetful of the curious chain of happenings that had made her pedestrian life grow exciting with in 24 hours. When she awakened at 8 o'clock in response to the whirling of a silvery alarm, she thought of Ronnie, not Rob.

She would see Ronnie today. Some time before five he would call and tell her where to meet him. She must look attractive, as smart as Sarah Markley.

She stretched luxuriously, remembering that she had a slim black suit, youthful as a new or something. Anyway, Mina was engaged to him and when she saw me she started to believe in reincarnation. She unpacked her old affection and offered it to me and, well, I can't make her see sense."

His voice sounded so forlorn and baffled that unconsciously Linda slipped her hand through his arm. "She's good material for a psychiatrist, I take it, isn't she?"

So, at a quarter of five she sat at her desk in the agency. Ever since morning she had been waiting for Ronnie to call. Each time she lifted the receiver she expected to hear his gay, low voice.

Surely, she told herself at 3 o'clock, he would get word to her before four. And now it was a quarter of five, ten of five, five of five.

Her heart felt strange and numb and her body dragged. How could just one message from one man do this to you? And hundreds of things could be detaining Ronnie. Of course they could. Only—she knew they weren't.

She outlined her lips in bravado, dusted brief powder puff across her nose. And the telephone rang. No sense now in growing needlessly excited. None at all, she cautioned herself, as she answered.

"Linda, honey?" With the voice across town speaking her name, Linda felt the tight bands around her heart relax, felt strength, sweet and clean and new, flowing through her veins. Oh, it wasn't fair that one man's voice could change the world for a girl. Not fair, but ever so true.

"Yes, Ronnie," she answered happily.

Then, as he hesitated, her heart stopped again. Perhaps he could not meet her.

"Linda, how about the Iridium room at the St. Regis? Can you come right away?"

The Iridium room! It represented wealth, gaiety, assurance. She was glad she had worn the new suit and the frivolous hat.

"I'm there waiting," Ronnie was saying, and she wondered if

Proper Diet On Average Income, Writer's Topic

COLUMBUS, July 6—How the average family may obtain an adequate diet at reasonably low cost, and thus build up resistance to disease and minimize the need for medical care, the costs of which constitute a serious problem for many persons of moderate income, is revealed in the current issue of The Ohio State Medical Journal.

It is possible, says an article in the medical magazine by Martha Koehne, Ph. D., to feed the average family a well-rounded, adequate diet for 30 cents per person per day.

Medical authorities contend that making adequate nutrition available to everybody is a major problem underlying attempts to improve the health of the people. In order to find out whether it is possible for the low-wage earner to feed his family properly and keep his budget balanced, The Ohio State Medical Journal requested Miss Koehne, a nutritionist in the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health, to make an intensive study of food and marketing based on prices prevalent in Ohio during the fore part of the present summer.

She worked under the direction of Dr. Roll H. Markwith, state director of health, and in cooperation with Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of The Ohio State Medical Journal. The Journal is the official publication of the Ohio State Medical Association and reaches more than 6500 physicians throughout the state.

Milk's Importance

The importance of milk in everybody's diet is stressed by Miss Koehne. It is an invaluable source of calcium or lime, she says, which is so necessary in building strong bones and teeth "and for the normal functioning of the soft tissues of the body."

Regarding the quantity needed, she advises: "Each child two to six years old and each expectant or nursing mother should have the equivalent of seven quarts per week; each adult doing sedentary work and each child under two years of age should have the equivalent of five quarts per week; children past six years of age should have five to seven quarts per week; each other adult should have three and one-half quarts per week."

The article points out that savings in milk purchasing can be effected through the proper use of canned and dry skimmed or milk solids. It explains also that cheese is an excellent dietary substitute for milk, one ounce of plain yellow cheese (a one-and-one-quarter inch cube) being equal in food value to a half pint of milk.

Sweet potatoes, Miss Koehne explains, are a good source of vitamin A, as indicated by their color, and for this reason should be served at least once a week. Other authorities have asserted that whenever natural foods are yellow—eggs, carrots, and butter, for example—it is a safe bet that the valuable vitamin A is present.

According to the Koehne article, "cooking potatoes without peeling—boiling with the skins on or baking—preserves their maximum food value. If peeled before cooking, sweet potatoes should be peeled one at a time, cut, and dropped immediately into boiling water to prevent discoloration. It is never desirable to leave peeled and cut potatoes soaking in water for an hour or more before cooking."

Two or three pounds of potatoes per person per week is the average amount required, says Miss Koehne. Half this amount is sufficient for a child under two years old, and double that amount is needed by a boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 19 or by a man engaged in hard physical labor. This means potatoes should be served at 10 or 11 meals during the week.

Tomatoes and citrus fruits are grouped together by Miss Koehne as important sources of vitamin C. "Canned products of this type," she says, "are just as valuable in this respect as are the fresh." She mentions tomato, orange, grapefruit, and pineapple juices as good vitamin sources, and of those grapefruit juice has the highest vitamin content.

Must Protect Juices

It is necessary to protect these juices from air, she explains, to preserve their value. If they are bottled, stoppered, and kept in a refrigerator, they keep their vitamin C value from 24 to 40 hours. The average person requires one and a quarter pints of grapefruit or orange juice weekly or that equivalent in tomato or other juices, which are not so rich in the vitamin.

Also grouped together are "leafy green and other green vegetables and all yellow vegetables and fruits including prunes" as a rich source of vitamin A and iron and roughage. Besides those essentials this group when eaten raw, the article says, may contribute vitamin C, vitamins of the B group, and other minerals, which dissolve in water and are lost through cooking.

This group of fruits and vegetables Miss Koehne considers good buys at the present time because they are in season. Among them are leaf lettuce, new carrots, home-grown asparagus, peas, snap beans, peaches, apricots, prunes and others. Regarding their cooking, she writes:

"If vegetables are cooked the shortest period of time needed to make them tender but not mushy, in the smallest possible amount of water so that the cooking water is gone when the product is ready to serve, put on in rapidly boiling salted water a handful at a time so that the water is constantly at the boiling point, and if they are served immediately when done, they will be most attractive looking, most palatable, and have the highest possible nutritive value. Canned vegetables, if served hot, need only to be heated quickly; they are already cooked." The nutritionist adds a note of warning not to use baking soda to cooking water because it tends to destroy C and B vitamins. Salt, she says, is a good substitute.

According to Miss Koehne, eggs are an important diet item, and each member of the family older than 18 months should eat four or five of them weekly. When it is not thrifty to serve many eggs, she suggests an ounce of liver as an effective egg substitute or one and a half tablespoons of peanut butter plus an extra pat and a half of butter during the day. Since eggs and meat are interchangeable diet items, it is suggested that when eggs are cheap more of them may be served to cut down on the meat bill.

In her discussion of fish and meats Miss Koehne declares that excessive consumption of fat hamburger, bologna, and wiener is unwise, particularly for children, because they are highly spiced and of low nutritive value. She okays hamburger with high lean content. Cheap cuts of meat are just as nutritive, she explains, and cut down on the meat bill.

In her discussion of sweets the diet authority says that New Orleans molasses and sorghum contain high amounts of necessary iron and lime and may well be used as table syrup and for cooking. Cane and beet sugar are identical.

as the higher priced cuts, and if cooked properly they can be made tender and palatable. "A little vinegar or tomato in the cooking water or poured over the top helps to tenderize them." Bones, she adds, should not be thrown away but should be cracked and cooked slowly in water to make soup stock or added to beans.

Lean Fork Valued

Miss Koehne also stresses the value of such organs as the heart, liver, and kidney, which are good sources of vitamin B1. Beef, pork, and lamb liver are just as high in food value and not so expensive as other types, she declares. It is also asserted in the article that, in spite of the criticism of pork as a food, lean pork is known to be a rich source of the very important vitamin B1.

Later in the article in the state medical journal declares that dry, mature beans and peas and nuts "make very satisfactory meat substitutes, providing sufficient amounts of milk or cheese or meat are used regularly." According to Miss Koehne, the so-called red skin peanuts and peanut butter are high in food value.

One and a half or two pounds of meat, fish, or poultry are required each week by the average person, the nutritionist says, while boys 16 to 19 years old and men doing strenuous work need two and three-fourths to three pounds.

Children younger than six years need only one-quarter to one-half pound per week. Of the group of foods mentioned as meat substitutes, she recommends one-fourth pound weekly for each person over six years.

"At last one half of the bread and one half of the cereal food used should regularly be of the whole-grain varieties—more is desirable in families of very low income," Miss Koehne declares. "Unless this is done, it is very difficult for families to secure enough vitamin B1, which is so necessary for health and vitality." Two and one half to four pounds of bread and cereal food per week is the proper amount for most persons, while children from two to six years old need one and a half to two pounds, children under two, one pound, and boys over 14 and men engaged in hard labor, four and a half to eight pounds.

In her discussion of fish and meats Miss Koehne declares that excessive consumption of fat hamburger, bologna, and wiener is unwise, particularly for children, because they are highly spiced and of low nutritive value. She okays hamburger with high lean content. Cheap cuts of meat are just as nutritive, she explains, and cut down on the meat bill.

Viola Alkire Goes East To Enter Dancing School

Viola May Alkire, daughter of Mrs. Fairy Alkire of near Circleville, left Saturday for New York City to continue her career by entering a dancing school. Miss Alkire, a graduate of Pickaway Township High School in the class of 1940, will later do professional dancing.

Miss Alkire, who began her dancing when she was a small child, has developed into one of Central Ohio's favorite dancers, appearing as a featured artist in many Columbus productions. She has appeared also in numerous school and other entertainments in Circleville and other southern Ohio communities where she has always highly entertained her audiences.

The best wishes of her many friends accompany her to New York.

Since there is no cure for mosaic once a plant has become infected with the disease, special care should be taken to prevent the disease by spraying lilies with a nicotine solution at the very first sign of vari-colored aphids clustering on the undersides of the leaves. Plants which show definite signs of the disease should be taken up and burned immediately to prevent further spread of the disease.

"They're so proud of this home they got through The Herald classified ads that they just sit here and admire it all day long."

The Daily Washington
Merry-Go-Round

shall be known as Mrs. X. Internal Revenue inspectors noticed on the publisher's books a regular payment of $200 a week to her, but when they asked what she did, everyone looked mysterious.

"Does she do any work in the office?" they asked.

"No," was the reply, "she takes care of Mr. Annenberg's clothes."

There was also listed on Annenberg's income tax the expenses of Mrs. X on various trips. For all these, Annenberg claimed income tax deduction. Naturally, only legitimate business expenses are deductible under the tax law, and the Treasury agents, seeking to cross-question Mrs. X finally located her in St. Johns, New Brunswick, where Canadian authorities kept her under scrutiny.

MRS. X FLIES HOME

At this point, Weymouth Kirkland, shrewd counsel for Moe Annenberg, came to the Treasury agents and said. "I understand you are looking for Mrs. X. All right, we'll produce her if there is no publicity when she arrives at the border."

This was agreed to, and Mrs. X flew to the United States on a chartered plane, from New Brunswick to Portland, Me., then to Boston and Chicago. She proved to be a lady of great poise and beauty, not at all flustered by the cross-examination. She was born in Pittsburgh, she said, but spent most of her time in New York, and more recently in Philadelphia.

Although listed as Annenberg's secretary, she admitted she could not do stenographic work. Treasury agents also questioned her about some letters which Annenberg had written to hotels establishing credit for Mr. X. However, she said there never had been a Mr. X. In other words, Annenberg was Mr. X and had written the letters to establish credit for himself when he traveled under this name.

Payments to Mrs. X, which obviously were not for business and therefore not deductible from income tax, amounted to a mere fraction of the $8,000,000 which Annenberg refunded to the Government. But their existence was an important clue in breaking the case.

Merry-Go-Round Lesson—If you must have non-business secretaries, don't ask Uncle Sam to pay for them.

NAZI PROTECTORATE

What the Germans have in mind in the Balkans, according to diplomatic dispatches cabled here, is a great union of the Danubian populations under the protection of Hitler.

In other words, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and what is left of Romania would all unite in a Balkan federation linked up with Berlin.

In addition to this, Germany plans to set up an entirely new state in the Balkans consisting of German minorities in Transylvania and the Banat. There are about 1,000,000 Germans in these fertile areas, most of them having migrated many years ago. They will form an independent German state, according to the present Hitler plan.

Meanwhile Italy, which hitherto has considered the Balkans her own special share of influence, will be pretty well squeezed out by Hitler. All Italy will get is Greece, over which she already exercises strong influence, and which is neither wealthy nor powerful.

Note—By the time Russia finishes carving Bessarabia and Bukovina out of Rumania, and Hitler finishes taking Transylvania, then Rumania will have been reduced from a nation of 17,000,000 to 4,500,000 people.

PLANT INJURIES
REDUCED WITH NEW MATERIALS

COLUMBUS, July 6—Fixed

coppers in the form of spray or dusts have proved less injurious to certain plants than bordeaux mixture or copper-lime dusts and are recommended for the control of some diseases of tomatoes, cucumbers, melons, and squash. When used as a dust on the cucurbits, the fixed coppers should be combined with flour to make them stick and with some filler such as talc to make applications easier.

The fixed coppers are especially satisfactory for controlling most diseases of tomatoes, and for bacterial wilt, angular leaf spot, macrorosporium spot, and anthracnose of cucumbers, melons, and squash. When used as a dust on the cucurbits, the fixed coppers should be combined with flour to make them stick and with some filler such as talc to make applications easier.

Many dealers carry the fixed copper-flour-talc mixture already prepared and buying usually is as economical as mixing the ingredients for persons with small gardens. Calcium arsenate should be added to the other three ingredients for persons with small gardens. Calcium arsenate should be added to the other three ingredients for insects in the dust if insects eat foliage or carry diseases are troublesome.

Some growers prefer to use a 75 percent rotenone dust on melons and cucumbers. Applications of fixed copper or rotenone should start when the plants emerge from the ground and should be repeated every three or four days until the vines run and then once a week.

The control of cucumber beetles is important because these insects destroy foliage and also spread bacterial wilt. Rains wash off the dusts so a new application must be made after each rain to control the beetle. Dusting should continue into the picking season to control anthracnose and leaf spot of cucurbits.

Potatoes, in Ohio, need protective sprays or dusts every five or seven days in the growing season. The control agent for disease and insects of potatoes may be bordeaux mixture or copper-lime dust. Calcium arsenate is added to either of these controls if potato beetles or flea beetles cause damage.

Growers who wish to prepare their own spray or dust mixtures should obtain a copy of extension bulletin No. 76 from county agricultural agents. This bulletin gives detailed directions for preparing dusts and sprays and information about applying them on all garden plants.

G-Man Hoover Knows.

A popular misbelief, encouraged by the liquor propagandists, is that crime reached an all-time high during prohibition years.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, knows the facts.

Three years after repeal, before the International Association of Chiefs of Police on Sept. 22, 1936, in Kansas City, Mo., he described "The last three years," as "the most terrible period of criminal history in the life of America..." and added, "the forces of law enforcement during these years are being challenged on all sides by criminal hordes," and "in recent years... youth has been drifting deeper into crime."

TWO HURT IN HOLIDAY

CHILLICOTHE, July 6—Chillcothe enjoyed its safest Fourth of July in history it was reported Saturday after a survey showed only two mishaps. Forest Rice, 13, son of Patrolman and Mrs. Dan Rice, received burns when a firecracker exploded in his hand, and Mrs. Carrie Griesheimer, restaurant operator, fractured her right arm at the shoulder when she tripped and fell when waiting table.

LAURELVILLE

Mrs. Elliott Reichelderfer and Mrs. Claude Chilcott were hostesses to the Community Club, Thursday evening at the home of the former, on Water Street.

The house was decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. The members and guests were late in arriving and the regular business meeting was delayed.

WPA GRANT PROVIDES MONEY FOR COUNTY BRIDGE, ROAD PROGRAM

SEVERAL CITY STREET REPAIR JOBS PLANNED

T. D. Van Camp Starts His Resurfacing Project; More Work Listed

Additional city and county highway improvement was assured Saturday when WPA officials announced they had received a release on their WPA appropriation from the state office for another job schedule.

The schedule includes a county-wide bridge repair project, resurfacing County Road Number 22 at Commercial Point, and additional work on city streets, alleys and sidewalks.

Service department employees stated that the city's share of the appropriation would be used to sponsor street improvements on Reber and Watt Streets, on Buckeye and Bank Alleys and on Case, Nicholas and Blaney Alleys in the north-end district.

More than sixty WPA men are now employed on a grading job on Reber Avenue.

In conjunction with the WPA work on county roads and bridges, Engineer Harry Griner announced that T. D. Van Camp, Columbus contractor, awarded a county road contract by the county commissioners, has started work. The contract calls for resurfacing of more than 26 miles of county roads.

The release received by the local WPA office Saturday is a portion of the total $215,592 state and federal WPA grant awarded to the county in March.

British pavilion last Tuesday and a voice warned her: "Clean out the building. It's going to be bombed."

Meanwhile police rounded up and questioned more than 100 radicals of every political description for questioning concerning the bombing. Communists, members of the Christian Front and Bund members were detained until their stories could be checked. The only one held was Caesar Kroeger, 38, described by police as a former Bund member. He was charged with violation of the Sullivan Law when police said they found two automatic pistols in his apartment.

A reward of $1,000 for arrest of the bombers was posed by the Detectives Benevolent Association and Mayor F. H. LaGuardia said the city would add a $25,000 reward to that when the Board of Estimate meets early next week.

NOMINEE, WIFE PLAN TO ACCEPT BID TO COLORADO

DENVER, July 6—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for president, will spend his vacation in the Colorado mountains, it appeared today. Gov. Ralph L. Carr prepared to meet with one of Willkie's representatives here to make arrangements.

Governor Carr revealed that he had sent Willkie a telegram from Cleveland inviting him to come to Colorado. When the governor arrived home yesterday from the G.O.P. convention, a long distance call from Willkie awaited him.

Willkie and his wife both indicated they are looking forward to the trip, Governor Carr said.

"I don't know just what we will do, but we'll see that he gets plenty of our ratified mountain air, a lot of fishing and rest," Carr said. Governor Carr was one of Willkie's floor managers at the G.O.P. convention.

Alfred M. Landau, G.O.P. presidential nominee in 1936, spent his vacation in Estes Park, Colo., that year.

NEW YORK, July 6—Conferences over the selection of a chairman for the Republican National Committee entered a second day today with Wendell Willkie, presidential nominee, and a sub-committee of the national committee meeting again around a long table to discuss candidates and capabilities.

Revelation that Hitler will return to Berlin followed an earlier announcement that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano will reach Berlin tomorrow for a visit of several days.

BERLIN, July 6—Sinking of 66,587 tons of enemy shipping on a single cruise by the submarine commanded by the Nazi naval hero, Lieut. Commander Gunther Prien, was reported today in an official communiqué issued by the high command.

This was the largest tonnage of shipping destroyed by a U-boat on a single cruise, it was claimed.

The communiqué reported:

"Lieut. Commander Prien returned from a cruise and reported he sank 66,587 tons of enemy ships, which is the largest total for a single submarine on a cruise.

"The air force attacked piers, docks and tank depots in south and middle England. Oil tanks at Plymouth were bombed and it was observed that they caught fire and exploded. The air force also successfully attacked warships and merchantmen.

"In the northern North Sea the air force sank one submarine and damaged another.

"In the channel the air force sank one merchantman of 8,000 to 10,000 tons and damaged an additional two merchantmen aggregating 8,000 tons.

ticularly coastal regions, took on a grim appearance.

Country Armed Camp

Indeed, the whole country seemed like an armed camp, with soldiers outnumbering civilians in many areas.

While construction of what is becoming known as the "people's defense moat" proceeded, authorities made every effort to eradicate any possible remaining fifth column weakness on the home front.

New ordinances are being issued daily designed to present a 100 percent front against an invader.

The latest regulations include the granting of power to authorities to close any road, prohibit kite and balloon flying and to compel aliens to surrender large-scale maps of the country in their possession.

Even Britons are forbidden to buy such maps without permits.

Hundreds of alien suspects were being rounded up as authorities completed their nation-wide dragnet for possible "trojan horses."

Heavy prison sentences were stipulated, even for Englishmen, for offenses likely to aid the enemy. For instance, one man was sentenced to seven years for placing a notice in a telephone booth advertising transmission times of the German radio.

The date when the German invasion attempt is likely to begin remained anyone's guess. In popular fancy, it may come anytime within the next seven days.

Aerial "Blitzkrieg"

Germany's opening gun, it was generally supposed, would take the form of an aerial "blitzkrieg."

Experts believed the anticipated raids would be launched as a mass assault, but the British took considerable satisfaction in the steady toll taken of German bombers so far and in the excellent work of the ground defenses.

It was felt in London that the Germans probably are using French, southwest Holland, Jersey and Guernsey bases for their raids on eastern England and Scotland.

It was agreed that the severity of future raids will depend on the damage British planes are able to inflict on these German-held bases, but the British attacks are known to be continuing relentlessly.

Nearly everybody's thinking nowadays is muddled except ours, and sometimes we're not even sure of that.

WPA GRANT PROVIDES MONEY FOR COUNTY BRIDGE, ROAD PROGRAM

SEVERAL CITY STREET REPAIR JOBS PLANNED

T. D. Van Camp Starts His Resurfacing Project; More Work Listed

Additional city and county highway improvement was assured Saturday when WPA officials announced they had received a release on their WPA appropriation from the state office for another job schedule.

The schedule includes a county-wide bridge repair project, resurfacing County Road Number 22 at Commercial Point, and additional work on city streets, alleys and sidewalks.

Service department employees stated that the city's share of the appropriation would be used to sponsor street improvements on Reber and Watt Streets, on Buckeye and Bank Alleys and on Case, Nicholas and Elaney Alleys in the north-end district.

More than sixty WPA men are now employed on a grading job on Reber Avenue.

In conjunction with the WPA work on county roads and bridges, Engineer Harry Griner announced that T. D. Van Camp, Columbus contractor, awarded a county road contract by the county commissioners, has started work. The contract calls for resurfacing of more than 26 miles of county roads.

The release received by the local WPA office Saturday is a portion of the total $215,582 state and federal WPA grant awarded to the county in March.

ADOLF RETURNS U. S. READY FOR HOME TO PLAN ACTION IF NAZIS ISLE ASSAULT MOVE TO WEST

Eulogy Written

In more than the triumphal procession was Hitler likened to Caesar today. As Berlin prepared to receive the chancellor, Nazi Press Chief Otto Dietrich issued a eulogy of the Fuehrer as the greatest military genius of the day, saying:

"Just as Caesar found his legions and Napoleon his guards, so the Fuehrer had the world's first nation of soldiers at his disposal for his unique deeds."

"The Fuehrer is the nation's first soldier and therefore also the field marshal of totalitarian war, towering over everything."

The press chief also revealed that Hitler's headquarters at the front had been named "Rocky Nest, Wolf's Glen."

Hitler went to the front May 10 and has remained there since, save for a brief interruption when he conferred with Premier Mussolini at Munich.

Planned All Phases

Except during that brief interval Hitler each day has mapped out every major phase of the German military operations in consultation with his key advisers.

He repeatedly visited the fighting front areas to supervise personally the advance of the Nazi troops.

In a proclamation to residents of Berlin announcing Hitler's return, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels said:

"The Fuehrer will arrive at the Anhalter station at 3 p.m.

"I am voicing your desire in inviting a reception such as Berlin has never seen.

"With paralleled enthusiasm we will greet the fuhrer.

"Within a few hours the whole city of Berlin must be transformed into an ocean of flags and wreaths, especially the streets through which he will pass.
